LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL

from

THE SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

To His Excellency, the Honorable Richard W. Riley, Governor of South Carolina, and to The Honorable Members of the General Assembly of South Carolina:

It is with particular pleasure that I submit the report of the South Carolina State Library for 1983-84. This year marks my final term as Chairman of the Library Board. Over the past eleven years I have seen great progress in library service - often in spite of reduced and restricted funding, budget and personnel cuts, and increased demands for service.

During these years State Aid to county libraries has gradually increased from thirty-five cents per capita to one dollar per capita with the 1984-85 budget. Library service has been extended to all forty-six counties, and renewed federal funding has made possible expanded construction of facilities in many counties. The Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped was established to serve users throughout the state. This essential service desperately needs a permanent home, and the State Library Board hopes it will soon be housed in a state facility.

The State Library has won several national awards for program excellence. It has initiated new services including the Film Program for public and institutional libraries, the Early Childhood Media Clearinghouse, the State Documents Depository System, and literacy programs. Miss Betty Callaham replaced Miss Estellene Walker as Director of the Library in 1979 and ably presided over expanded library service to state government, state agencies and the county library system.

Perhaps most important of all is the growth of library "networking" during these years. Participation in the Southeastern Library Network has made possible better, faster, and more efficient library service. Intensive planning is underway for greater automation and a statewide network to serve the library needs of South Carolinians in the future. Forty years after state funding of the library system began, South Carolina has the opportunity to make another giant step forward in library service. More adequate funding will enable the State Library to keep pace with the Information Age and to better serve Carolinians who have grown to expect excellence in the information services of the South Carolina State Library.

Respectfully submitted,

Carlanna L. Hendrick

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY

I. Administration

Agency Director:
The Agency Director is the State Librarian who is responsible for the operation of the South Carolina State Library. She is employed by and is responsible to the Board of the State Library.

A. General Administration
Plans development and extension of library service; establishes and reviews policies; prepares and administers the annual budget; administers state and federal aid for libraries; promotes the extension and improvement of library service; recommends library legislation.

B. Library Interpretation
Interprets the objectives and functions of the statewide library program; plans and carries out a statewide program of publicity and public relations designed to publicize South Carolina libraries and to make the general public aware of library services; publishes newsletters and reports.

II. Technical Services

Acquires and makes available all materials used in the library program; catalogs and classifies books, serials, pamphlets, and non-book materials; purchases and receives all materials; receives, stores and distributes periodicals and newspapers; classifies and/or catalogs all state and federal documents received; prepares all materials for use and maintains the book collection; uses OCLC/SOLINET bibliographic computer network for cataloging and retrospective conversion; monitors development of state data base.

III. Field Services

A. General Field Service
Fosters the development and improvement of public library services; assists local officials, librarians and citizens through field visits, surveys and correspondence; supervises State Aid for public libraries and LSCA Title I grant programs; monitors all public library projects funded from state and federal funds administered by the South Carolina State Library.

B. Career Education
Provides workshops and training programs for public and institutional library employees; supervises the certification program for public librarians.

C. Library Services for the Disadvantaged
Provides consultant service to local libraries engaged in, or planning, projects in this area; administers grants and supervises local projects; reports on and evaluates the program; coordinates literacy programs.

D. Film Service
Provides a film loan service to qualifying public and institutional libraries and trains staff in use of films as a means of extending the informational resources of the local library; selects and maintains film collection and A-V equipment; prepares annual film catalog.

E. Library Services for Children
Provides assistance and training for public library staffs to enable them to better serve children and parents; coordinates the Early Childhood Education Media Clearinghouse; serves as liaison to other agencies concerned with child welfare and education.

F. Institutional Services
Plans and administers a program to establish, develop and improve library service in state institutions; supervises the library program in individual institutions and provides consultant service for library development in all institutions; administers federally funded grant-in-aid projects.

G. Public Library Construction
Provides consultant service in planning of public and institutional library buildings; advises library boards, library administrators, and architects on state and federal regulations and procedures; administers federal LSCA Title II grant program and supervises construction projects receiving grant funds.

IV. Reader Services

A. General Reader Service
Provides reference and research services to State Government, State Government agencies, and State employees; performs on-line computer data base reference and bibliographic searches; maintains and services federal document collection and grants research collection; selects books and other materials to be added to the general reference collection; prepares and publishes a monthly bibliography of new acquisitions and prepares special bibliographies.

B. Interlibrary Loan Service
Provides statewide reference and interlibrary loan service to supplement local library resources; supplies materials and answers reference requests for libraries throughout the state; supervises In-WATS communications network; uses OCLC/SOLINET bibliographic computer network for interlibrary loan and reference; provides consultant service to local libraries in the development of reference services and collections; plans and provides workshops to increase the effectiveness of library employees engaged in reference services.

C. Interlibrary Cooperation
Promotes cooperative activities and sharing of resources by all South Carolina libraries; plans and administers LSCA Title III grant program and monitors local projects.

D. Statewide Library Network
Plans and develops computer-based statewide library network and communcation system to facilitate sharing of library resources and services; provides consultant service to local libraries in the automation of library functions, conversion of bibliographic records to machine-readable form, and resource sharing activities.

E. State Documents Depository System
Coordinates the South Carolina State Documents Depository System by collecting, cataloging, and distributing to designated affiliate libraries the publications of State Government agencies and institutions; provides consultant and supervisory service to depository libraries; promotes and publicizes document services; prepares the quarterly checklist and annual index of state documents.

V. Service to the Blind and Physically Handicapped
Plans and administers library service to the blind and physically handicapped; maintains liaison with the Library of Congress's National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped; maintains records of eligible borrowers and of materials and equipment on loan; provides guidance to readers in selection of books; supervises five browsing collections of talking books in local public libraries; conducts public information program to make potential users aware of service.

Historical Synopsis

The South Carolina State Library traces its origins to 1929 when the General Assembly authorized creation of a state library extension agency. A board of five citizens was appointed, but no state funds were appropriated during the Depression years. Grants from the South Carolina Library Association and the Rosenwald Foundation enabled the State Library Board to employ a field agent for three years from 1929 to 1932 to assist towns and counties in the development of public libraries. In 1934 a citizens' conference on the library needs of South Carolina was held at Clemson College which resulted in the formation of the South Carolina Citizens Library Association. The first statewide library program was carried out under the Works Project Administration from 1935 to 1943. The WPA's objective was to provide each county of the state some measure of areawide public library service. When the WPA project began there were only three counties in the state with countywide library service. There were eighteen local libraries with incomes of at least $1,000 and twelve others receiving "some" support from public funds. There were twenty-one counties without a tax supported library in their borders.

The WPA State Library Supervisor served somewhat in the capacity of a state library extension agent in planning, supervising, and stimulating library development. The program resulted in bookmobiles being purchased and put into operation in twenty-three counties, and public library service in some form was made available in every county. In 1943, when the WPA project closed, many of the public libraries established under the project were continued on local tax support. The State Library Board inherited the WPA assets and was given the first state appropriation ($3,000) to operate for the last months of 1942-43. The first full year of operation for the state library extension agency was 1943-44, the General Assembly having appropriated $15,000 to employ staff and to initiate State Aid to county libraries. At the time of the establishment of the State Library Board's first office, there were twelve county libraries with professional librarians and fourteen other county libraries and one regional library established under the WPA program. There were 879,794 people, forty-six percent of the state's population, without public library service. The ownership of books among public libraries was three-tenths per capita, and the total expenditure for public library service was fourteen cents per capita.

The State Library Board initiated its program with emphasis on State Aid to public libraries and a goal of statewide public library service. Under the leadership of Estellene P. Walker, head of the agency from 1946-1979, a master plan for library development was devised which aided in the establishment of county and regional libraries which now serve all forty-six counties. The pattern of unified county library systems, each legally established and governed by a single library board, made possible a good level of service by eliminating expensive duplication and overhead and by sharing resources and personnel. During the first twelve years of the State Library Board's program, emphasis was placed on the extension of public library service and on its legal establishment. The objectives were to create a strong legal base for public library service in the state, to emphasize local initiative and local support, and to create an understanding of the benefits of public library service and an acceptance of the cost of that service.

When the federal Library Services Act was passed in 1956, Governor George Bell Timmerman, Jr. issued an executive order charging the State Library Board with administering and implementing within the state the library programs provided for in the Act. Through this Act, the agency's functions were expanded to include service to the blind and physically handicapped, development of library service in state institutions, and interlibrary cooperation. The original LSA/LSCA programs were designed to remedy major deficiencies - units of service too small for economical service, a shortage of qualified professional personnel, inadequate book collections, and inadequate library housing.

In 1965, partially as a result of the First Governor's Conference on Public Libraries, the General Assembly appropriated matching funds to make possible the construction of a new building for the State Library Board through the Library Services and Construction Act. Before the new building was occupied in February 1970, an act (S.C. Code, 1976, 60-1-10 et seq.) was passed by the General Assembly in 1967, to become effective July 1, 1969, redesignating the State Library Board as the South Carolina State Library and making it responsible for public library development, library service for state institutions, service for the blind and physically handicapped, and library service to state government and state government agencies. In 1973 the South Carolina State Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped was established and now serves more than 8,000 registered borrowers. Act 348 of 1982 made the State Library the official state documents depository and authorized the establishment of a system of regional depositories in existing libraries.

Since 1969, the State Library has had a dual role. As the library extension agency it provides a staff of consultants to assist public and state institutional libraries in strengthening services, maintains a comprehensive collection of books, documents, periodicals, films and other materials to supplement local library holdings, operates a reference and interlibrary loan service to provide information not available at the local level, and administers state and federal aid to libraries. As a reference and research library for state government, the State Library supplies legislators, officials, research staff, and state agency personnel with the facts, statistics, or technical data required for planning and decision making. It answers questions, lends books and materials, researches issues, prepares bibliographies, collects state and federal documents, and provides information about legislation and programs of other states and the U.S. government.

Because county libraries were originally established by individual enabling acts passed by the General Assembly, the effects of the 1975 Home Rule Act upon local legislation necessitated passage of a statewide library act. In 1978 the Legislature amended the Home Rule Act to require counties to provide library sytems. Act 564 (S.C. Code, 1979 Supp., Sec. 4-9-35 et seq.) stated:

> "The General Assembly finds that county public libraries make a substantial contribution to the education and recreation of the residents of the state and merit the continued interest and support of state and local government."

In 1979 the South Carolina Governor's Conference and the White House Conference on Library and Information Services mobilized public support for libraries, focused on the special needs of the handicapped, and stimulated interest in library cooperation. The Task Force on Library Automation and Networking, created by the State Library, became an agent for exchange of information and for planning of a statewide bibliographic network.

Through the years the State's financial support for public libraries has grown significantly. Beginning in 1943 with only $200 per county system, State Aid increased to $1,500 per county by 1952. Years of effort climaxed by the 1965 Governor's Conference on Public Libraries resulted in the change to a per capita basis for State Aid. From twenty cents per capita ($69,650) in 1966-67, State Aid increased in gradual steps to seventy-five cents per capita ($1,942,887) in 1980-81 (1970 census) and to $2,339,406 in 1981-82 (1280 census). During 1983-84, the joint efforts of librarians, trustees, and Friends of Libraries persuaded the General Assembly to appropriate the long desired goal of one dollar per capita or $3,121,820 for 1984-85. With local, state, and federal support, South Carolina now has countywide library service in all forty-six counties. Total library support for 1983-84 was $5.60 per capita. Bookstocks have reached 1.35 per capita, still well below the interim goal of two books per capita.

The South Carolina State Library exists to serve citizens, libraries, and government. Its goals are to provide the library services and resources needed by the people of South Carolina and to give every individual access to the informational resources of the state. Whenever possible these responsibilities are met by means of programs designed to strengthen and improve the public and state institutional libraries which serve the public. When economy or efficiency so dictate, the State Library serves library users directly, as in service to state government or service to the blind and physically handicapped. An ongoing objective is to encourage cooperative activities and sharing of resources by all South Carolina libraries.

In a year crowded with accomplishments, four activities stand out -- the State Aid campaign, the literacy program, automation, and network planning. During recent years, public library supporters have become increasingly aware of the necessity to be politically active. The Association of Public Library Administrators has become an effective voice for libraries, county and regional library trustees have become outspoken library advocates, and Friends of the Library groups have joined in the library awareness drive at both the local and state levels. A request for one dollar per capita in State Aid for public libraries was approved by the Budget and Control Board and shepherded through the House and Senate by a strong group of library supporters headed by Representative Tom Mangum, Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Representative Harriet Keyserling. As the General Assembly wrestled with an education reform package requiring a tax increase, the State Library and public libraries monitored the budget process at every step through the legislature. A highlight of the State Aid campaign was the Library Legislative Day on February 29, during which several hundred librarians, trustees, and Friends lobbied their legislators during a morning coffee, luncheon, and private meetings. The efforts paid off when the final budget included not only the increase in State Aid but also funding for network planning and some increases for the State Library.

Libraries have for many years been involved in literacy activities, but during 1983-84 events coalesced in South Carolina to make possible a cooperative drive against illiteracy. The State Library, the South Carolina Literacy Associatic , the Office of Adult Education and the Office of the Lieutenant Governor cooperated to pool resources and focus efforts in seven upstate counties. With the incentive of funds from these state agencies, local libraries, school districts, and literacy councils cooperated to make significant progress in organizing new programs, expanding existing ones, and finding innovative ways to reach larger numbers of the functionally illiterate. The South Carolina program's success in cooperation and sharing has won nationwide attention. The program will be expanded in 1984-85 into another group of counties in the Low Country.

In recent years libraries have increasingly turned to automation to streamline internal functions and to make information services more readily accessible to their users. Since 1975 the State Library has participated in the SOLINET/OCLC computerized bibliographic network for shared cataloging and more recently for out-of-state interlibrary loan service. Word processing equipment has enabled the staff to keep pace with an ever increasing work flow, and now microcomputers are being utilized for a range of services from personnel records to accounting. The Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped is using a series of micros to automate reader and machine records and to streamline a highly labor intensive service. The Reader Services Department utilizes the Dialog system for DATA SEARCH, an online reference service that enables state researchers and library users to access many national data bases. The ALANET system is being used for electronic mail.

This trend toward automation may soon be climaxed by development of a computer-based statewide library network to serve state government and the libraries of South Carolina. During the latter months of the fiscal year, the State Library's Network Project Team was engaged in intensive study and investigation in preparation for presenting a funding request for an integrated library system at the State Library to host the statewide network and a communications system to give libraries and agencies access to the system. Working with an automation consultant and the Division of Information Resource Management, the staff has developed a proposal for a three-year plan of network development to be presented to the State Library Board, the Budget and Control Board, and the General Assembly for action during the first half of 1984-85.

In the midst of this busy year, the South Carolina library community was saddened by the death of Estellene Paxton Walker on May 15, 1984. Miss Walker served South Carolina for thirty-three years, as Executive Secretary and Executive Director of the State Library Board (1946-1969) and then as State Librarian (1969-1979). Under her direction a small public library extension agency grew into the South Carolina State Library which serves state government, libraries, the blind and physically handicapped, and the general public. Miss Walker established the pattern of unified county library systems and led in the development of countywide public library service for all forty-six counties. As a member and a president of the South Carolina Library Association, she worked for the professional improvement and advancement of librarians in the state. To librarians and trustees, to legislators and officials, and to the public, she expressed a need for strong libraries and the right of all citizens to good library service. The South Carolina State Library and the public library program will bear witness to her leadership and service for many years to come.

The State Library Board

The South Carolina State Library is an independent state agency governed by a library board of seven members named by the Governor, with one member from each Congressional District and one from the State-at-large. Members serve five-year terms and may be reappointed. During 1983-84, Mr. Allen R. Carter of Hanahan resigned as the representative from Congressional District I and was succeeded by Mr. George H. Seago, Jr. of Summerville. Dr. Carlanna Hendrick of Florence completed eleven years as Chairman of the State Library Board. Mr. Timothy Driggers of Lexington was elected to the Chairmanship for 1984-1986.

State Library Awards

Each year the South Carolina State Library honors individuals, organizations, or libraries which have made outstanding contributions to library service in South Carolina. Two Distinguished Service Awards were presented during the annual conference of the South Carolina Library Association, October 14, 1983. The recipients were Miss Estellene P. Walker, former State Librarian, and Mitchell Reames, former Director of the James A. Rogers Library of Francis Marion College.

Volunteer Services

The State Library and the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped both benefit from the support of citizens who voluntarily contribute time and services. Members of boards and advisory groups represent user groups and aid in the development of policies and services.

Other individuals perform a variety of tasks, from repairing Talking Book machines to assembling newsletters, which staff members never have sufficient time to do. During 1983-84 some seventy individuals contributed 1,509 hours of service as shown below:

State Library
Library Board	7 Members	94 Hours
LSCA Advisory Council	14 Members	124 Hours
Task Force On Library Automation and Networking	16 Members	145 Hours
Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped
Advisory Council	11 Members	48 Hours
Telephone Pioneers	9 Members	750 Hours
Other Volunteers	18	368 Hours

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

To fulfill the Agency's mission efficiently and effectively, the Administrative Department provides support services to all library divisions in the areas of: (1) Information/Clerical Support, (2) Finance/Accounting/Payroll, (3) Personnel, and (4) Procurement.

The department serves as clearinghouse for all incoming and outgoing mail and material. All correspondence, planning and reporting documents, newsletters, reference and interlibrary loan requests and other materials needed to carry out the Agency's program are typed by this department.

Finance and accounting staff are responsible for all financial transactions and records of state appropriations and federal funds under the Library Services and Construction Act. Cooperating with the Comptroller General's data processing staff, the division is making plans to automate the accounting records in FY 84-85. During the latter part of the year all personnel records were automated with the cooperation of the Comptroller General's Office data processing staff, who developed the program.

The Agency is an Affirmative Action Equal Opportunity Employer and administers its personnel program in compliance with State Personnel requirements. During FY 83-84 considerable attention was given to refining a new Employee Performance Management System implemented in FY 82-83. Consistent with the State Consolidated Procurement Act of 1976, purchases of supplies, materials, and equipment are made for the Agency. During FY 83-84 an IBM-PC was purchased to implement the automation of leave, personnel, payroll and accounting records. Plans are being made to convert other records now stored on a word processor.

TECHNICAL SERVICES

All reference and information services which the State Library provides to state agencies, libraries, and individuals depend upon a strong, carefully selected, current collection of books, periodicals, documents, microforms, and databases. It is the Technical Services Department which coordinates the selection, ordering and processing of all materials for the State Library collection, including audio-visual materials and large-type books for the Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The book stock is a one-copy, non-fiction collection, except for South Carolina titles. It includes periodicals and newspapers in both paper and microfilm, and services such as ERIC in microfiche. There are separate collections of both federal and state documents. Principal additions during the year are as follows:

Item	Additions	Total
Books	8,737	167,803
State Documents	3,233	33,931
Federal Documents in print	9,579	69,049
Federal Documents in microfiche	18,461	50,542
Microfilm reels	648	15,099
Microfiche	21,654	279,104

Being a member of Southeastern Library Network, a computerized network of libraries affiliated with the national network, OCLC, Inc., has made it possible to catalog new acquisitions quickly and efficiently and to continue input of our retrospective holdings into the data base. The number of retrospective titles added this year was 14,083, bringing the four-year total to 88,549 titles. Conversion of the circulating collection is complete and work has started on the South Carolina and state documents collections. Increased requests for these older titles have been noted by Interlibrary Loan.

An additional 130 state document titles, for a total of 588 titles, were cataloged during the second year since depository legislation was enacted. Cataloging continues to be supplied with each new title sent to the depository libraries, and the Checklist of South Carolina State Documents continues to be issued quarterly with an annual cumulation.

Cooperation with the Library of Congress is being expanded to include the Name Authority Cooperative Project, an on-line authority file of names: personal, corporate or geographic; uniform titles; and meetings. This makes for uniformity in cataloging so that on-line access will be possible across the country. A professional staff member was trained at the Library of Congress for two weeks in forming names and cross-references according to rules for the NACO project. Names established by the State Library are entered by the Library of Congress into its on-line name authority used by the libraries of North America through the utilities: OCLC, RLIN, WLN, and Utlas. The South Carolina State Library is the eighth state to join in this cooperative effort.

FIELD SERVICES

The purpose of the Field Services Program is to extend and improve public library service throughout the state and library service in the state institutions. Four general consultants serve as liaison between the State Library and the thirty-nine county and regional library systems which provide service to all the state's forty-six counties. Each consultant works with specific county and regional libraries. The nature of the work which these generalists do with local libraries depends upon the level of library service in the system and on the training, expertise, and experience of the individual librarians. The state institutional consultant performs the same function in thirty-four institutional libraries. Two specialists on the Field Services Staff work with all public and state institutional libraries in the areas of children's services and film services.

The Field Services Program serves as a catalyst for improvement of service in public and institutional libraries. The role of the Field Staff is to assist librarians, trustees, citizens, and administrators of state institutions in determining the library needs of their communities and ways to meet those needs; to provide in-service training on a one-to-one basis in meetings and through statewide workshops; to explore solutions to local problems with library directors and boards; and to provide ideas and information on diverse topics such as construction, staff development, and budget presentation. It is the responsibility of the Field Staff to supervise the administration of State Aid to public libraries and to monitor grants-in-aid under the Library Services and Construction Act to public and state institutional libraries. They assist local librarians with needs assessments and in developing grant applications to address weaknesses. During fiscal 1983-84, the Field Service Librarians:

-- worked with the thirty-nine public library systems serving forty-six counties of the state and with the thirty-two institutional libraries maintained by seven state departments and agencies;
-- made 392 field trips to public libraries;
-- made eighty-three field trips to institutional libraries;
-- attended fifty-nine local library board meetings;
-- monitored library budgets including approximately $13.3 million in local funds;
-- administered $2,339,406 in State Aid grants to public libraries;
-- supervised LSCA projects providing approximately $579,338 in grants-in-aid to public libraries and $44,149 in grants to state institutional libraries;
-- assisted eleven local library boards and library directors in planning construction projects utilizing $68,066 in LSCA II grants and an anticipated $2.5 million in local and state funds and monitored the projects for compliance with state and federal regulations;
-- represented the State Library at local, state, and national conferences, conventions, workshops, professional associations, building dedications, civic organizations, and other state and local meetings;
-- provided recruiting, placement, and training services for public librarians and for librarians in the state institutions.

State Aid for Public Libraries

Recognizing the State's responsibility for the support of public libraries as part of South Carolina's total educational and cultural program, the General Assembly appropriated $2,339,406 to the State Library for distribution in 1984 -- at seventy-five cents per capita -- to county and regional libraries. An improved economic outlook made budget cuts unnecessary during the year as had occurred over the past two years.

During FY 84, librarians, trustees, Friends, and patrons made a concerted effort to increase the level of funding from seventy-five cents to one dollar per capita. This effort was successful and the General Assembly has authorized State Aid at one dollar per capita for FY 85.

To participate in the State Aid program, public libraries must be legally established, provide countywide library service, maintain levels of county funding, and meet certain standards of service. The regulations under which the State Library administers the State Aid program ensure that state funds will not replace local funds, that the funds will be used to achieve a higher level of public library service, and that each citizen of the state has access to such service. Qualifying libraries may use State Aid funds to supplement staff salaries, to purchase books and audio-visual materials, to purchase or lease equipment, and to operate and maintain bookmobiles.

State Aid for county and regional libraries began in 1942-43 when the General Assembly appropriated $200 per county for qualifying county libraries. Below is a chronology of State Aid for South Carolina public libraries:

Years	Basis	Total Allocation
1942 - 1943	$200 per county	$ 8,100
1943 - 1948	$300 per county	$ 13,800
1948 - 1952	$1,000 per county	$ 46,000
1952 - 1967	$1,500 per county	$ 69,000
1967 - 1972	20¢ per capita	$ 518,103
1972 - 1973	25¢ per capita	$ 647,629
1973 - 1978	35¢ per capita	$ 906,681
1979 - 1980	50¢ per capita	$1,295,258
1980 - 1981	75¢ per capita (1970 census)	$1,942,887
1981 - 1982	73.3¢ per capita*(1980 census)	$2,288,173
1982 - 1983	71¢ per capita*	$2,214,637

Federal Aid to South Carolina Libraries

The purposes of the Library Services and Construction Act include the improvement and extension of public library service, the improvement of library service for certain priority groups, the construction of public library buildings, the strengthening of state library agencies, and promotion of interlibrary cooperation among all types of libraries. Federal Aid is used in South Carolina to supplement and reinforce State Aid to libraries, to provide the incentive for improved local support, and to provide a better level of service for all South Carolinians. A major objective is the extension of service to the unserved and the inadequately served.

Title I of LSCA provides for improved service to all public and institutional libraries and to certain segments of the population. LSCA grants-in-aid have been used to strengthen book and periodical collections, to initiate new programs of service, and to improve the level of service in existing programs. The quality of library personnel has improved because of the recruitment of new staff and the continuing education of existing staff. With the help of LSCA funds, libraries are reaching out to help the culturally disadvantaged, the functionally illiterate, the elderly, the handicapped, and isolated people who need special services. LSCA provides grants to improve library service in state supported institutions. In 1984, grants were also authorized for three pilot projects for automation of library financial and administrative services and bibliographic records.

During FY 84, LSCA Title II again provided funds for public library construction which became available through Public Law 98-8, the Emergency Supplemental Funding Act (Jobs Bill). The resulting eleven construction projects will enable participating counties to provide better library service (see Public Library Construction).

Title III programs have helped promote interlibrary cooperation and resource sharing. LSCA has contributed to improved communications, bibliographic access, interlibrary loan, in-service training, and study and planning. Current Title III projects are designed to contribute to the long-range goals of establishing a state bibliographic network. The building of the statewide data base will help eliminate expensive duplication of materials and will make the state's library resources available to all South Carolinians. (See Network Development).

In FY 84 the State Library was awarded $940,217 for Title I, $779,110 for Title II, and $215,214 for Title III. In 1984, the U. S. Senate and House passed legislation reauthorizing the Library Services and Construction Act (LSCA). Since the Senate and House versions differ, a conference committee has been appointed to agree on a compromise bill. The outlook is optimistic for the bill which will authorize LSCA through 1988.

Continuing Education for Librarians

The South Carolina State Library has always recognized the need for well-trained personnel and has consistently supported a program of continuing education for public and institutional personnel - professional, pre-professional, and clerical. Trustees are also kept informed about all areas of public library service. Grants are awarded to attend conferences, seminars, and academic courses in librarianship. When it is appropriate, the State Library also plans and provides workshops in specific subject areas.

During 1983-84, grants were awarded to three pre-professional librarians to attend courses in the foundations of library and information services and in cataloging and reference. Twenty-three non-professional librarians representing sixteen county and regional library systems attended a one-week academic course in Reference Skills and Tools offered by the University of South Carolina College of Library and Information Science and funded by the State Library.

Eight professional librarians received grants to attend seminars or workshops which included such topics as automated circulation systems, reference management, literacy programs, administration and personnel management, and building programs.

State Library staff members attended workshops or conferences on personnel management, automated library services, collection development, and the use of personal computers. The Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped sponsored a workshop attended by approximately forty public library personnel whose purpose was to familiarize them with the Division's services. In March, the State Library also sponsored a workshop on puppetry attended by seventy public and institutional librarians.

In November, the State Library's Reader Services Department held the second Cooperative Reference Exchange at the State Library with eighteen representatives of public, academic, and technical education center librarians in attendance.

Library Service for the Disadvantaged

Grants were made to twenty-four county and regional library systems to establish, expand, and extend library service to the disadvantaged in South Carolina.

Beginning in FY 84 emphasis was placed on encouraging the development of cooperative literacy activities. A seven-county area was selected as the primary target area and grants were made to six of the county library systems to develop or expand library literacy activities in cooperation with the South Carolina Department of Education, Office of Adult Education, and the Office of the Lieutenant Governor of South Carolina. In addition to these six grants, nine other county and regional library systems also received grants for literacy projects.

A secondary emphasis of improving access to library service in rural and other isolated areas resulted in awarding grants to two library systems to purchase bookmobiles, one library system to purchase an outreach van, two library systems to develop outreach services, three library systems to expand outreach services, and one library system to expand services to disadvantaged children.

Film Service

The State Library's 16mm film program supplements and strengthens the resources of South Carolina public and state institutional libraries. The films are informational and recreational for all ages and are used by public and state institutional libraries to meet the informational and recreational needs of library patrons. The collection includes 1,597 films and is constantly updated by additions. The catalog of the film collection is revised or supplemented periodically and distributed to all public and institutional libraries to assist them in using the film service.

During FY 84, adult-level films in the collection were made available for circulation to civic groups and community organizations through participating county public libraries. Response to this expanded service, especially from churches and nursing homes, has been very good. Circulation of films is expected to increase dramatically in the next fiscal year as more and more groups and organizations learn of this service.

In FY 84, the Field Service Librarian for Audio-Visual Services made sixty-one field trips to provide in-service training, technical assistance and guidance in planning, programming and promoting film services. Four regional workshops on children's films were conducted. The State Library circulated 4,058 films in FY 84, with which county and state institutional libraries sponsored some 4,555 film programs. A total audience of 108,671 persons was reached this year through film services.

Library Service to Children

The South Carolina State Library provides consultant services to public and institutional libraries as they work to provide quality services to children. Libraries can receive assistance in planning and evaluation of children's services, collection development, program planning, staff orientation and training, and publicity and promotion.

During 1983-84 over 29,500 children participated in the Book Invader Summer Reading Program designed to encourage children's reading, which was co-sponsored by the State Library and public libraries. Workshops on children's film programs were held in four regional locations. A two-day puppetry workshop was held in March 1984. The children's consultant made fifty field visits and worked with the field staff supervising federal grants-in-aid related to serving children.

The Early Childhood Media Clearinghouse provides information about films, filmstrips, video tapes, slide/tapes, and cassettes about early childhood development and education which are available for loan from thirty-six state agencies, institutions, and organizations. These non-print materials provide a resource for education and training of people working with young children and for parenting education programs. The State Library's own collection in this area continues to be expanded to meet the needs of those seeking to improve the quality of life for young children.

Institutional Library Services

With varying degrees of financial and moral support, libraries in South Carolina's state-supported residential institutions continue to give a good level of service to their assorted clientele. The educational, recreational and therapeutic resources of these libraries are considered as part of each institution's program of rehabilitation for residents. With mandates from both state and federal governments, the South Carolina State Library developed a program for institutional libraries that includes the services of consultants, workshops for administrators and librarians, scholarships and workshops for library personnel, reference assistance and interlibrary loan and grants-in-aid for the purchase of materials. The Department of Corrections received a special grant for the purchase of materials to support its literacy program, and all librarians have profited from the State Library's support of bibliotherapy as a skill particularly useful with residents.

In FY 84 thirty-two institutions maintained by seven departments and agencies participated in this project, providing library service to residents. Of these, sixteen offer full service under the direction of qualified library personnel. In addition, fifteen adult correctional institutions are served from a central library division maintained by the Department of Corrections.

Four institutions too small to provide full-service library programs are served by a special project of the State Library. Three addiction centers and a vocational rehabilitation center annually receive collections of paperbound books especially selected for their residents' use in recreation or therapy.

In FY 84 the State Institutional Consultant made sixty-six field trips to work with state institutional libraries.

Public Library Construction

As a part of the "Jobs Bill", LSCA Title II, which provides funding for public library construction, was funded in FY 83 for the first time in ten years. South Carolina's share of the $50 million appropriation was $779,110. The review of grant applications began in July, 1983, after the latter part of FY 83 was spent writing plans and preparing applications, applicants guides, etc.

Twenty-one public library systems submitted letters of intent to participate, indicating a great need for construction funds. Other libraries did not respond because local matching funds were not available. Only eleven applications were approved because of limited funding.

State Library staff members worked with public library staffs, boards, and local officials in the writing of building programs, drawing of initial floor plans, critiques of architectural drawings, furniture layout, fund raising, and justifying need to county councils.

The major story of this project was the willingness of the people of these counties to raise money for their library. In all but two projects, contributions from individuals, local companies, and foundations played a significant part. This is especially noteworthy when one considers these were all counties with high unemployment. Chester County residents voted by a margin of better than two to one to tax themselves up to $1 million for the library, the first referendum to our knowledge ever passed for library construction in South Carolina.

At the end of FY 84 five projects were under construction, three were out for bid, and three were in the final approval process. It is estimated that all eleven will be completed in FY 84.

From the activity that has been generated, it is obvious that LSCA Title II funds have served as an incentive for local effort. Fund raising in most cases is still underway. Preliminary figures on sources of funds can be found in the following chart:

	COUNTY/ CITY†	STATE	CONTRI-BUTIONS	LSCA	TOTAL

The remaining LSCA II funds ($19,410) will be used to reimburse participating libraries for the cost of architectural and engineering reviews required by state and federal regulations.

READER SERVICES

The Reader Services Department provides assistance in the use of the reference and information resources of the State Library. Members of state government and state agencies make direct use of the library's resources, and citizens of the state have access to the library's services through their local public library.

Reference and Information Services to State Government

To perform effectively, state government needs access to current and retrospective information. The State Library serves as a major research facility designed to supply materials to meet the information and education needs of state government and state agencies. The State Library's collection of books, journals, microforms, and government documents is continually updated by the selection and purchase of new materials which reflect recent developments in research areas of interest to state government. The staff works closely with state agencies to determine materials to be purchased and placed in the State Library, thereby providing centralized access and reducing unnecessary duplication. The State Library's collection is particularly strong in the areas of political science, human resource development, social sciences, criminal justice, education, planning, and current affairs. To inform state personnel of new publications, the State Library publishes and distributes monthly New Resources, a selective listing of items recently added to the collection.

The State Library has several specialized collections which provide extensive information on major topics. The Education Resource Information Center (ERIC) contains more than 240,000 documents on microfiche. ERIC provides ready access to descriptions of exemplary programs, research and development efforts, and related information which can be used in developing more effective educational programs. The collection is used extensively by teachers, school administrators, planners, students, and researchers interested in all aspects of education. Since 1972, the State Library has participated as a cooperating collection in the Foundation Center's nationwide network of reference collections containing information on funding sources and grantsmanship. This collection is used heavily by individuals and organizations seeking grants. During the year, the State Library published and distributed the second edition of the South Carolina Foundation Directory which contains information on 174 South Carolina-based philanthropic foundations. The State Library has an extensive collection of information from the U. S. Bureau of the Census. The library cooperates with the South Carolina State Data Center in providing convenient citizen access to census publications. These data are essential to researchers involved in planning.

A staff of professional reference librarians works closely with state personnel to locate information and assist in research. As an enhancement to this reference service, the State Library offers computerized reference service which is known as DATA SEARCH. This service is obtained from DIALOG Information Services, Inc., which has more than 200 data bases available containing in excess of ninety million records. Information available can range from a directory type listing of specific manufacturing plants to a citation with bibliographic information and abstract of a journal article or conference paper. Many of these databases contain information which is not available in printed sources at the State Library. DATA SEARCH offers the user rapid, complete, and often timesaving research capabilities. The charge for each computer search includes computer time and communication costs and is paid by the requester. During the year, thirty-six DATA SEARCH requests were performed for state government researchers.

During 1983-84, 15,416 individuals visited the library. State employees and members of state government borrowed 24,711 books during the year, representing an eleven percent annual increase. The reference staff processed 8,407 reference questions, representing a thirty-two percent annual increase.

Legislative Reference Service

Since 1974, the State Library has provided special information services for members of the General Assembly. The reference staff works closely with legislators, committee researchers, and legislative interns in identifying research needs, performing needed research, and directing individuals to the best sources of information. To assist in researching these information needs, the State Library subscribes to two major services which report on significant governmental actions occurring in other states - From the State Capitols and State Policy Reports. In the past year legislators and their researchers submitted 372 reference questions and borrowed 1,588 books, representing a forty-three percent annual increase. The State Library provided free of charge 5,653 pages of photocopy in response to reference questions.

Interlibrary Loan Service

The State Library functions as the central unit of a statewide interlibrary loan network designed to supplement and coordinate library resources in South Carolina. The Interlibrary Loan Service, drawing on the research collection of the State Library, works with local libraries to supply South Carolinians with materials and information not available in their own communities. Questions received range from requests for basic information on such topics as the history of the South Carolina State Seal to more challenging requests for technical information on computer programming. Materials for the State Library collection are selected to supplement the collections of public libraries in meeting the diverse informational needs of citizens interested in improving the quality of their daily lives, in educating themselves and their children, and in relating to local, national and international affairs. The quantity of these requests is steadily rising, and their content is becoming increasingly sophisticated. At the present time, public and state institutional libraries have direct access to the State Library via an In-WATS telephone service which allows interlibrary loan requests to be submitted and processed rapidly. As changing technology results in improved library communication capability, the State Library is pursuing the idea of a South Carolina library network. Since interlibrary loan will constitute a major component of network activity, the Interlibrary Loan Librarian has participated in State Library network planning activities.

To allow local librarians to determine the holdings of the State Library as quickly as possible, microfilm copies of the State Library's catalog have been placed in public libraries throughout South Carolina. Work has begun on filming the latest edition of the supplement to this catalog which lists acquisitions from January 1983 to June 1984. The supplement will be completed and distributed early in fiscal year 1984-85. The State Library has also distributed the third edition of its list of periodical holdings to public and academic libraries in South Carolina. For the first time, this list has been issued in microfiche format in two versions. The first is a list of State Library holdings only. The second, the result of a cooperative project involving the Richland County Public Library and Columbia College, is a union list of the holdings of these three Columbia area institutions.

Since no single library can supply all materials required by its patrons, the State Library has acquired sources necessary to identify holdings of other libraries within the state and the nation. For technical and comprehensive requests requiring location of materials either in the state or outside South Carolina, the library makes use of various union catalogs and the resources of the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET). SOLINET provides online access to a computerized data base of over eight million items held by more than 3500 libraries. The State Library used this data base to verify title locations and supplied location information to all types of libraries for 759 books, most of which were not owned by libraries in this state. Through SOLINET, the State Library participated in the OCLC Interlibrary Loan Subsystem, using this computer access to other member libraries both to receive and place requests for materials. Interlibrary Loan also made use of the State Library's DATA SEARCH service to enhance standard research methods with computer-assisted reference techniques.

As part of a continuing effort to upgrade the reference capabilities of personnel in South Carolina libraries, the State Library sponsored a series of Cooperative Reference Exchanges which began in 1982-83 and concluded in 1983-84. The workshops were attended by fifty-six public service librarians from forty-four public and academic libraries. The two-day sessions provided an opportunity for reference personnel in various types of libraries to meet and exchange information and ideas concerning reference service. Since the meetings were held at the State Library, participants were also able to discuss and examine the policies, services, and collections of the library itself.

To encourage better use of the State Library's reference service by South Carolina libraries, the Interlibrary Loan Librarian made twelve field trips to local libraries and met with six county and reference librarians at the State Library to discuss interlibrary loan procedures and techniques.

The State Library, following its commitment to the concept of resource sharing among all types of libraries in this state, continued to provide expanded interlibrary loan service to South Carolina academic and special libraries in addition to its traditional services to public libraries. In keeping with its goal of encouraging library cooperation, since 1981 the State Library has filled book and periodical requests and provided location information to academic and special libraries throughout the state. A total of 3,403 books and 9,460 pages of photocopy were sent to these libraries in 1983-84. These figures represent sixteen percent and fifteen percent increases respectively over 1982-83 figures.

During 1983-84, the Interlibrary Loan Service received 5,030 In-WATS calls and filled 5,730 reference and 21,449 title requests. 25,861 books and 22,617 pages of photocopy were supplied in response to these requests.

Government Documents

Government documents, the official publications of the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government, form the core of information the State Library collects about the United States and South Carolina governments. Documents cover a variety of topics ranging from child care to transportation of nuclear waste, making documents useful to both casual and serious library users.

The State Library has been a federal depository library since 1970. The depository system, operated by the U. S. Superintendent of Documents and the Government Printing Office, enables the library to receive selected federal documents free of charge. During 1983-84, 9,579 paper documents were added for a total collection of 60,049; 18,461 pieces of microfiche were added for a total of 52,542. The dominance of microfiche reflects economy measures at the federal level which began in 1980-81. Paper copy doubled over 1982-83, possibly because of 1980 census publications.

The proposed South Carolina State Plan for Federal Depository Libraries was submitted to the Superintendent of Documents for approval on May 31, 1983, was rejected by that office on February 10, 1984, and was amended to conform to requirements on February 27, 1984. Approval of the Plan was expected, but not received, by the end of the fiscal year. The purpose of the Plan is to coordinate services among the seventeen depository libraries in South Carolina.

The State Documents Depository System grew in most categories during its second year of operation. The number of cataloged documents sent to affiliate depository libraries in monthly shipments increased 151%, from 543 in 1982-83 to 1,365 in 1983-84. 164 pieces of ephemera were distributed, bringing the total number of items distributed to 1,529. The number of new documents cataloged increased twenty-eight percent, from 458 in 1982-83 to 588 in 1983-84. 4,233 state documents were added to the State Library's holdings, making a total collection of 33,931. The number of documents added represents a 7.7% decrease over last year.

Affiliate state documents depository libraries in South Carolina are: Clemson University, College of Charleston, Francis Marion College, Greenville County Library, Lander College, South Carolina State College, Spartanburg County Library, USC-Beaufort, USC-Coastal Carolina and Winthrop College. The Library of Congress and the Center for Research Libraries in Chicago also receive copies of South Carolina state publications.

Library Network Development

A library has the responsibility to serve as an information resource to meet the technological, commercial, recreational, social and cultural needs of its community. The amount of information being generated in today's "Information Age" is so extensive that no one library can possibly contain all the information needed by its users. To meet these needs, libraries are joining cooperative networks at the local, state and national levels. In South Carolina, the State Library plans to develop a statewide network of libraries utilizing computerized data bases and telecommunications links which will provide effective access to the holdings of libraries throughout the state. The development of a statewide network will improve the cost effectiveness of operations and services through cooperative automation and resource sharing and will enable any South Carolinian to draw upon the holdings of the state's total library resources.

The State Library coordinates the planning for the statewide library network in conjunction with the South Carolina Task Force on Library Automation and Networking which the State Library organized in 1979. The Task Force, composed of representatives of public, academic, school and special libraries, has the responsibility of making recommendations concerning library automation activities in the state. During the year, the Task Force held a series of four open meetings to study possible approaches to the statewide library network. The meetings featured library consultants experienced in library automation and network planning. An estimated 300 members of the South Carolina library profession attended. As a result of these meetings, the State Library staff was able to develop possible scenarios for the South Carolina Library Network. In the coming year, the State Library will determine the requirements for the state network and seek funding for its implementation.

As local libraries became more aware of the need for automation planning in their local operations, the State Library established a library automation consultant team composed of three individuals experienced in automation. These individuals, retained on a part-time basis, were available upon request from individual libraries. The team was used by the Spartanburg County Library and the Spartanburg Methodist College Library in developing automation plans. Throughout the year it became apparent that more extensive involvement would be necessary for the local libraries to benefit from consultant services; therefore, the State Library hopes to secure funding in the future for a full-time automation/network consultant.

The development of computerized data bases containing the holdings of individual libraries is an important element in a network. One source of computerized data is the Southeastern Library Network (SOLINET), one of the major regional library networks in the country providing cooperative cataloging and location services. At present, twenty-eight South Carolina libraries participate in SOLINET. The State Library has used LSCA Title III grants to encourage further participation in SOLINET. In Greenwood, the Abbeville-Greenwood Regional Library, the Lander College Library, and the Piedmont Technical College Library completed the third and final year of a SOLINET cluster project in January 1984. Two additional libraries were identified for participation in a pilot program. The SOLINET Cataloging Support Project will enable smaller libraries to benefit from network participation. The Newberry-Saluda Regional Library and the Georgetown County Library will begin participating in July 1984. An important aspect of data base development is the conversion of book holdings acquired prior to participation in SOLINET into machine-readable format. This process is known as retrospective conversion. The State Library awarded grants to Clemson University, the University of South Carolina, the University of South Carolina Processing Center, Winthrop College Library and the College of Charleston Library to assist in their retrospective conversion projects.

Another essential element in networking is telecommunications. The State Library hopes to utilize the telecommunications facilities being developed for the State of South Carolina. In conjunction with this goal, the State Library has worked closely with the Division of Information Resource Management in identifying the needs of the future statewide library network.

LIBRARY SERVICES TO THE BLIND AND PHYSICALLY HANDICAPPED

The South Carolina State Library, Division for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, has the responsibility for providing library services to any South Carolinian who is unable to read conventional print because of a visual or physical handicap. Books and magazines are available in recorded formats (disc and cassette tape), braille, and large print. The South Carolina State Library administers this service in cooperation with the Library of Congress, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The majority of readers utilize recorded books, and for them DBPH provides a sound reproducer (either a record player or a cassette playback machine). Recorded books and machines are made available by the National Library Service. Braille service is provided to approximately 100 persons under contract with the North Carolina State Library. The large-type print collection has been made available with LSCA funds and consists of more than 5,000 titles.

In fiscal year 1984 the library provided service to 6,734 individuals. A total of 126,127 books and magazines were circulated. Not reflected in these totals are many magazines received directly by the readers from the producers under contract to the Library of Congress, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

Because services are primarily via mail from Cayce, South Carolina, a large-print newsletter also available on cassette tape and an In-WATS telephone line with an after-hours recording device serve as the principal means of communication. The In-WATS line recorded 5,655 calls using 137 hours of time. Walk-in users at DBPH during fiscal year 1984 numbered 1,546 for an average of more than six per day.

Public libraries help promote the service by identifying potential uses and assisting new readers by demonstrating how equipment works and explaining how the program operates. A workshop for public library personnel on library services to the handicapped was held in 1983. In five county libraries -- Anderson, Charleston, Florence, Greenville, and Spartanburg -- the State Library maintains browsing collections of several hundred recorded books. Public libraries are encouraged to involve handicapped individuals in local programming.

Since the State Library began providing this service directly in 1973, the service has continually increased. In 1973 the book collection consisted of 10,000 volumes. In 1984, 17,744 books were added to the collection which now totals 138,879. The South Carolina cassette collection is made up of titles recorded by volunteers. It is primarily titles about South Carolina or by South Carolina authors, but other volunteer-produced titles are included. This collection now numbers 254. In 1973, 1,800 people were served; now 5,495 adults and 499 juveniles are served with an additional 1,044 being served via 261 deposit collections located in nursing homes, hosptials, schools, and adult day-care centers.

It is estimated that 43,705 South Carolinians are potentially eligible for the service. The growth in readership is expected to level off at about 15,000. Growth in readership will require a comparable growth in the size of the collection. Implementation of automation has begun with the purchase of three microcomputers and word processing equipment. Need for additional space to enable DBPH to serve its patrons adequately is becoming critical, and it is hoped that space can be obtained in the Mount Vernon Mill building.

DBPH continued its outreach efforts by personal appearances and speaking engagements and by the establishment of an Advisory Council made up of patrons and other providers of service to the handicapped. Because of a nationwide cassette machine shortage and local staff shortages DBPH did not participate in the National Library Service's Public Relations Program utilizing public service announcements for radio and television stations.
